IN preparing this little volume the author has given the Andrews genealogy only so far as it relates to his own immediate ancestry. Up to the seventh generation this data applies as well to all others who come within this same line of ancestry. The record of Amos Andrews as a Revolutionary soldier (see Notes) gives the required data that renders all who come within this same ancestral line, eligible for admission to the "Association of the Sons (or Daughters) of the Revolution."

Pains have been taken to have this record as complete as possible. Should any errors be discovered the information should be sent to the undersigned, the author of this volume,

HENRY L. ANDREWS.

NOTES.

JOANNA (BURNHAM) ANDREWS, WIFE OF

AMOS ANDREWS.⁵

Mrs. Andrews was a descendant of Thomas Burnham, one of three nephews of Captain Robert Andrews, the owner and master of the good ship "Angel Gabriel," 240 tons burthen and carrying 14 guns. She sailed from Bristol, Eng., June 4, 1635, and touched at Milford Haven, in Wales, June 22. She was wrecked on the coast of Maine, Aug. 15, 1635, but the crew and passengers were saved.

Captain Andrews and his nephews came to Chebacco and settled. John and Thomas remained in Chebacco (Essex), but their brother Robert went to Boston and later to Dover, N. H. Thomas married a Tuttle, and he had a son John, who had a son David, who had a son Westley. Westley married Deborah Story. They had a daughter Joanna, who married Amos Andrews of Ipswich, Mass., January 23, 1766. She was born in Ipswich, October 11, 1744, and died at Gloucester, Mass., January 20, 1847. aged 102 years, 2 months, 28 days.

The mother died at the age 92, and a sister died aged 94.

“At the age of 100 this remarkable woman was able to keep her own separate domestic establishment in the house of her grandson, and attended to her own wants. From that time her decay was as gradual and marked in retrogressive order by the same stages, as an infant's growth.”—History of Gloucester.
